PRIVATE COOKING IN OXFORD & OXFORDSHIRE

From my kitchen to yours.

I'm Kristina — a cookbook author, food writer and passionate cook, now based in Oxford. I'm opening a small part of my working week to private cooking for local households.

Thoughtful, beautiful food made for real life — not restaurant food transplanted into your kitchen. Fresh lunches, family suppers waiting for later, a fridge filled for the week, or something special when people are coming to the table.

British and French cooking with Mediterranean influences: seasonal vegetables, fish and seafood, good salads, soups, tarts, gratins, slow-cooked dishes and desserts worth saving room for. Menus adapted to your household and dietary needs.

If I cook regularly for you, I want to learn how you actually eat — what disappears immediately, how adventurous the children are, whether Tuesday needs something comforting and Friday a little celebration.

Organised, discreet and used to working independently — with years in international brand management behind me.

Not simply food in the fridge — everyday life made easier, and more delicious.
